The image shows a fragment of a cuneiform tablet with lines of text in Akkadian script. The text is arranged in columns, with some lines being heavily damaged or obscured by a large, dark, irregular mark in the center. The fragment is labeled with 'Rs.10' at the top left and right, and 'Heft 5, Nr. 7' on the right side. The lines are numbered 10, 15, 20, 25, and 30 on the left margin. The script is a mix of standard cuneiform characters and some more complex, possibly ideographic, signs. The fragment is part of a larger collection, as indicated by the 'Nr. 7' and 'Bo. 2004' in the header.
